PETROGRAD THREATENED, RUSS GOVERNMENT WILL BE MOVED TO MOSCOW, ANCIENT CAPITAL

Evacuation of Reval, at Entrance to Gulf of Finland, is Reported.

INHABITANTS MOVE INLAND

Naval Station Guarding Approach to the Gulf Abandoned, Leaving Germans One Less Obstacle on Way to Russian Capital; Sailors Wait Battle

By Associated Press.
PETROGRAD, Oct. 19.—The government has definitely determined to move to Moscow in the very near future. The newspapers publish an official announcement that the evacuation of the fortified port of Reval on the Baltic at the entrance to the Gulf of Finland has begun.

The schools at Reval have been closed. The inhabitants of the city are being sent to the interior of Russia.

Announcement that the government will move to Moscow was made today by M. Kishkin, minister of public welfare.

The sailors of the main Baltic fleet are reported to be keen to fight. The men at Kronstadt are demanding that the ships be sent out to meet the Germans but the government is understood to have taken the position that as the enemy forces are of superior size it would be disastrous to leave Petrograd undefended.

After the capture of Riga by the Germans preparations for removal of the government to Moscow were begun. The failure of the Germans to develop their offensive after taking Riga as well as the approach of winter, making open campaigning impracticable, relieved the fears for the safety of Petrograd for the near future.

Last week announcement was made that preparations for transferring the seat of government had been stopped as there was no prospect that such action would be necessary, at least for some time. The new offensive operations by the Germans resulting in the capture of Oesel and Moon islands and the threat of an invasion of Estonia again change the situation, however, and may be responsible for the decision to remove the government to Moscow, the ancient capital.

Reval, a town of about 50,000, 200 miles southwest of Petrograd, is a naval station and with Helsinki on the Gulf of Finland guards the approach to the gulf. The landing of Germans on the Estonian coast would menace the town from the rear.

FRENCH BOMB GERMAN AIR BASE IN FLANDERS

LONDON, Oct. 19.—Many bombs were dropped yesterday with good results on the Varsenaeve airbase, Flanders, by naval aircraft, says an official announcement given out here today. "All our machines returned safely."

FRENCH TAKE 100 GERMANS IN AISNE FRONT BATTLE

PARIS, Oct. 19.—The French last night attacked the German line on the Aisne front after a heavy bombardment. The war office reports that German positions were penetrated and that 100 prisoners were taken.

KING CONSTANTINE IN DANGER FROM OLD WOUND

PARIS, Oct. 19.—A Zurich dispatch to the Matin says the old wound of former King Constantine of Greece has reopened and that an operation was performed at Zurich yesterday. His condition is said to be most grave.

DULL HARD AT WORK AT NORFOLK YARDS

Writing to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dull, Rockwell Dull, local young man with the mosquito fleet, declares that the Norfolk navy yards, where he is now stationed, present a scene of intense activity. "People who think that no money is being spent on the navy," he says, "should see what is going on here."

TOM MADIGAN TRANSFERRED TO CAMP MEADE, MARYLAND

Thomas E. Madigan, who had been stationed at Camp Dix, Trenton, N. J., was transferred this week to Camp Meade, Annapolis Junction, Md.

Tom writes to say that he is pleased with the change in camp location as the weather conditions are much better in Maryland than in New Jersey, of course. Tom enlisted shortly after the war broke out in the Fifth Engineers of Pittsburgh, but was never called to that regiment. A few weeks ago he was notified to report to the 2nd Regiment of Engineers.

Alabama Priest Here

Rev. Emmet B. Kennedy, rector of St. Katherine's Roman Catholic church in Mobile, Ala., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ralston in North Pittsburgh street. On his return trip Rev. Kennedy will stop off at training camps in Virginia and Kentucky to see a number of his parishioners. Rev. Kennedy was a scholastic of J. Rudolph Kistner.

L. SCOLNICK TO JOIN ARMY PHOTOGRAPHERS; BACK FROM CAMP LEE

Local Drafted Home For a While Before Going to Little Silver, N. J.

L. Scolnick, local photographer who left here with the second contingent for Camp Lee, returned home early this morning, for a short furlough before leaving for Camp Alfred Vail, at Little Silver, N. J., where he will report for duty in the photographers branch of the Signal Reserve Corps.

Mr. Scolnick said this morning he believed he would be on his way to France before Christmas.

Mr. Scolnick said that all the boys at Camp Lee were pleased with the life there. Many asked him to call at their homes during his furlough here, but as it would be impossible for him to see so many people he wishes to state that all the soldiers are enjoying the best of health.

Uniforms were issued yesterday to men who arrived at the camp with the second increment. Complete uniforms have not been given to all the men yet, however.

Earl Martin has been appointed temporary mess sergeant and the men are enthusiastic over the "ham and egg" breakfast he served them Monday. It was the first time the boys had gotten any since their arrival at camp and Martin is the most popular man in the company.

Oliver Goldsmith, Thomas Courtney and Daniel Minard have been appointed temporary corporals in the Sixth Training Battalion. Minard, however, is expecting orders for his discharge until he completes his course in dentistry. He is a student at Pitt. Orland Leighty, also a dentist student at Georgetown university, may be discharged with Minard.

Louis Lancaster, Frank Patrick, Clark Kistner and Joseph Wingrove have formed a quartet, and they have perfected a death song for the Kaiser. They like it so well they sing it in their sleep, at least others in the barracks say.

It is rumored in the camp that about 100 soldiers will leave soon for a camp further south. Just who will make up the contingent, however, only he surmised as no one will know anything about who goes until the orders are received. Mail should be sent to the same address, however, and it will be forwarded from Camp Lee.

PERRY DISTRICT IS BOOSTING LIBERTY LOAN

Perryopolis women, who to the number of 100 at a meeting Tuesday evening pledged their active support to the Liberty Loan campaign, will begin at once to solicit subscriptions.

Mass meetings will be held Monday evening at Star Junction, with M. E. Townsend presiding, and at Perryopolis, with J. A. Byers presiding. The meetings will be under the direction of Howard Adams, cashier of the Fayette county Liberty Loan executive committee for the Perry district.

The first meeting will be held at Star Junction at 7 o'clock. Music will be provided by the Italian band of that place and addresses will be made by several prominent attorneys. At 8 o'clock, the second meeting will be held at Perry, with the Perry Fife and Drum corps furnishing the music.

HYMAN LEVINE MADE TEMPORARY CORPORAL

Hyman Levine who left here with the third contingent from District No. 2 for Camp Lee writes to his brother, Nathan, that he has been appointed a temporary corporal in Company B, 319th regiment. Most of the Connellsville boys who left here with the same contingent are also in the 319th. The first contingent boys are in Co. I of the same regiment.

AMBULANCE CORPS MAN VISITS RELATIVES HERE

After spending a few days of a short furlough with Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Hirleman, a nephew, John Thunhurst, a member of an ambulance corps, left yesterday morning for Gettysburg where he has been in training. The corps is expected to move soon to New Jersey where orders to go to France will be awaited.

WEST PENN PEOPLE TO SEND BOXES TO HARMON AND INKS

West Penn employees are raising a fund to send boxes of candy, smokes and other soldiers' comforts to Saftford Inks and Ewing R. Harmon, former West Penn men both in the service at present. Young Inks is at Camp Dix, Trenton, N. J., with Company D of the 26th Engineers, and he writes to W. S. Anderson at the West Penn offices here that he is working harder than he ever did before. Harmon is with the National Army men at Camp Lee, Petersburg, Va.

Get Marriage Licenses

William McDonald of Dunbar and Virginia B. Walker of Connellsville; Raymond Miner and Rebecca Rugg of Mill Run; were granted marriage licenses in Uniontown yesterday.

A. M. FULLER, AGED MILLIONAIRE, DIES AT PERRYOPOLIS

Wealthy Recluse Passes Away About 6.30 O'clock This Morning.

BEDFAST BUT SHORT TIME

Death Follows Close After That of His Housekeeper and Companion, Mrs. Anna L. Dillon, Whose Taking Off Was a Severe Blow to Him.

Alfred McClellan Fuller, Fayette county's wealthy recluse, died on his estate at Perryopolis at 6.30 o'clock this morning. He was in his 85th year and had been in failing health for a long time. A complication of diseases and the infirmities of years resulted in his death, although he was confined to his bed less than two weeks.

Mr. Fuller's death followed close upon that of Mrs. Anna M. Dillon, who had charge of his household affairs for many years. Her death was a severe blow to the aged millionaire and when stricken he did not rally as he had from previous attacks of illness.

Deceased possessed great wealth. Conservative estimates put his coal land, stocks, other property and cash at $5,000,000, but it is doubtful if even he knew the full value of his holdings. His estate at Perryopolis is underlaid with especially valuable coal, which he persistently declined to sell though it was in great demand. His cash deposits in banks are said to be enormous.

Mr. Fuller lived the life of a recluse for many years, seldom leaving his estate. He spent his money freely on improvements to the place and contributed to many charities and public movements in and about Perryopolis. He annually gave a Christmas treat to the children of that section.

Miss Allie Fuller, of Perryopolis, and Mrs. Mary Poney of Philadelphia, nieces, are his only surviving relatives.

Alfred McClellan Fuller was born in Perry township, on his father's farm, April 7, 1832. He was the son of James and Mary (Furner) Fuller. He attended the common schools of Perry township. Although he was brought up on a farm, he never did any farming, but learned the rudiments of the stock business from his father. At the age of 21 he went to Philadelphia, where his brother William had settled a short time before. The two young men became wholesale stock buyers, dealing in live stock on a large scale. Their headquarters were in Philadelphia, but they had interests in other centers, and were among the largest owners in the stockyards of New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Baltimore. Their association was broken by the death of William M. Fuller, and Mr. Fuller continued in the business alone. The Fullers were first in the field as exporters of American live stock to Europe.

Mr. Fuller lived most of his life in Philadelphia hotels, having had extensive banking and railroad interests in eastern cities. He traveled extensively, in this country and abroad. Before middle life he had become a millionaire.

Mr. Fuller retired in 1885 to his estate near Perryopolis. He was reported to be the largest individual taxpayer in Fayette county, and certainly the largest landowner, having over 1,500 acres of rich farm land underlaid with coal.

When he returned to Perryopolis, he remodeled and rebuilt his house, and has since lived there most of the time. The house is richly furnished and contains many rare treasures from many parts of the world, fine paintings and beautiful decorations. Mr. Fuller was a Democrat in politics. He was a member of no church, but an annual donor to all the churches near his home.

Mr. Fuller married on May 23, 1882, Margaret Coleman Fuller, a widow, the daughter of William Coleman. She married first Daniel Fuller, one of Mr. Fuller's brothers. Her father was an iron manufacturer of Pittsburgh; her sister, Lucy Coleman, married Thomas Carnegie, a brother of Andrew Carnegie. One child was born to Alfred M. Fuller and Margaret Coleman Fuller; Florence Margaret, burned to death in the great Windsor hotel fire in New York City on March 17, 1899, when she was nearly 36 years old.

LOAN MASS MEETING

Rally to Boost Liberty Bond Sale to Be Held Tonight.

A big mass meeting to boost the Liberty loan will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Carnegie Free Library. The sale of bonds is expected to take a big jump following this rally.

Mayor Rockwell Marzetta will preside, and will introduce John E. Laughlin of Pittsburgh as the principal speaker. Mr. Laughlin will talk on the war. Eugene T. Norton will also make a short address on "Bonds."

The meeting promises to be an instructive one, and a big turnout is expected.

Women of the city are in charge of the meeting.

CHARLESTON SAILOR WANTS TO MEET LOCAL GIRL WHO MADE HIM A COMFORT SET

Although women of America by the hundreds of thousands are knitting mufflers, helmets, wristlets and scarfs for the soldiers and sailors without thought of reward other than the appreciation of the Sumner or Jackies who receive the garments they make, it is only natural that some of the younger maids should seek to make a comfort set a romantic medium. It is being done.

A Connellsville girl whose skillful fingers knitted a woolen set for a sailor on the U. S. S. Charleston, which the Connellsville comforts branch of the Navy League is supplying, enclosed her card with her finished garments. In due course of time her set reached a member of the Charleston's crew. He happened to be from Williamsburg and through a long round about way sought out Mrs. J. M. Grey, head of the Comforts branch, to secure an introduction to the fair knitter.

It is only natural to expect that many other girls have done the same thing and if acquaintanceships sprang up between them and the man of the Army and Navy and letters are exchanged, the young women will help to cheer their fighter friends in lonely hours as well as provide for their material comfort with warm woolen garments.

CRAWFORD STATUE TO BE DEDICATED DESPITE RAIN

Addresses to Be Held in Carnegie Library Auditorium As Scheduled.

MONUMENT FREE OF DEBT

A downpour of rain which began early this morning will mar the Colonel William Crawford memorial dedication exercises this afternoon. The Crawford memorial commission, however, plans to go through with practically the entire program, as originally made up.

Beginning promptly at 2 o'clock, the speakers will make their addresses in the Carnegie Free library auditorium. All the exercises will be held here, and when they are concluded, the audience will march in a body to the monument on the library grounds, and witness the unveiling of the statue. Just before the monument is unveiled, the monument will be covered with a huge American flag, and this will drop about the figure at the moment of unveiling.

The rain caused the members of the commission great disappointment, but they are determined to go ahead with the entire program, with the exception of the flag drill of school children, which, it seems, it will not be possible to hold.

Rev. E. B. Burgess stated this morning that the last pledges on the monument have been paid, and the memorial is dedicated entirely free of debt. It cost, in round numbers, $3,442.

Members of the State Historical commission, all of whom are expected to be in Connellsville some time today, had begun to arrive this morning, when State Senator William C. Sprout of Chester, and General A. E. Sisson of Erie, came in. The severe rainstorm and resultant lateness of trains is supposed to have delayed some of the other members.

Dr. George P. Donohoe was the host at luncheon to the commission members in the Arlington hotel. Some time today the commission will hold a regular meeting at 133 East Crawford avenue, the home of Mrs. Donohoe's mother, Mrs. Mary C. Buttermore.

The other members of the commission, expected to arrive at any minute and to be present for the dedication ceremonies, are: William H. Stevenson of Pittsburgh; Hampton L. Carson, Philadelphia; and Curator Thomas L. Montgomery, Philadelphia. Dr. Donohoe is secretary of the commission. Dr. Donohoe and Senator Sprout will make addresses at the unveiling exercises.

The Grim Reaper

JAMES E. SHOPE.

James E. Shope, 60 years old, a well known resident of South Connellsville, died last evening at the Cottage State hospital following an operation. He was admitted to the hospital September 19. The body was taken charge of by Funeral Director Charles C. Mitchell and removed to the family residence, from which place services will be held this evening at 7.30 o'clock, with Rev. W. H. Conley and Rev. McLaughlin officiating. The body will be shipped to Curtin, Pa., for interment tomorrow morning on the early Pennsylvania train. Deceased is survived by his widow.

MOVING DAY AT CAMP HANCOCK IS A BUSY OCCASION

New Location For Tenth Boys Not So Desirable as the Former One.

CHANGE IS A SURPRISE

Expectation Was That If Regiment Was to Move It Would Not Be Until Later and That Quarters Now Occupied By 18th Would Be Location.

By SCOTT LYSINGER.
Tenth Regiment, Hospital Corps.

CAMP HANCOCK, Wednesday, October 17.—Today is moving day for the Tenth Regiment. Orders were received yesterday to pack up and move to the section of camp formerly occupied by the Third Regiment of Philadelphia, which loses its identity in the reorganization of Pennsylvania troops. Nine o'clock this morning found the Connellsville boys in their new home which is not nearly so desirable as the former one, little or nothing having been done toward clearing it of stumps. It is a mile farther from a trolley station, too.

The order to move came as a surprise to all, everybody having nursed a hunch that if we were to move it would not be until later and then into the quarters occupied by the 18th, which is not to be dissolved after all and remains where it is.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Struble and Cyrus Kennel of Connellsville, and Miss Viola Struble of McClellandtown, arrived in camp Saturday noon, having made the trip over land in Mr. Struble's Buick in three days and a half. During their short stay here they were shown about camp and given an opportunity to see the made workings of a coal cantonment by their son, William, a member of the Hospital Corps. Cyrus Kennel availed himself of the opportunity to spend a whole day in camp and to see the soldiers do. "Cy" took his mass pen Continued on Page Three.

FUND $10,000

Western Pennsylvania Contributes That Amount for Army Work.

Word was received today by Treasurer H. E. Scholch of the Connellsville fund which is to assist in financing Salvation Army work at the cantonments of the American draft army and among the American troops in France, that the fund being raised by Western Pennsylvania cities and towns has passed $10,000. General Chairman George E. Alter of Pittsburgh states, however, that the pledges have been coming in very slowly during the past week, and a second appeal is being sent out to many persons in this territory.

KILLED BY TRUCK

Smithfield Man Crushed to Death Under Heavy Vehicle.

Joseph F. Long, aged about 50 years, superintendent of the Prospect Coal company at Smithfield, was instantly killed about noon today when he fell while attempting to board the company's motor truck, the wheels of the heavy vehicle passing over his head.

Mr. Long had come from the mine to a store in Smithfield. At the top of the hill he met the truck. He slipped as he tried to get aboard. The truck was three-ton weight and had about 100 bushels of coal in it. Mr. Long leaves a widow and five children.

Son at Herwick Home

A son was born last night to Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Herwick of South Prospect street. The family is now composed of two boys and four girls.

BIGGEST PARADE EVER IS PLANNED FOR LIBERTY DAY

General Committee Named For Great Demonstration Next Wednesday.

SPEECHMAKING TO FOLLOW

Addresses To Be Made on Liberty Law if Weather Permits, Otherwise in the Christian and Baptist Churches and Carnegie Library Hall.

Definite plans to make the Liberty Day celebration here on October 24 the biggest in the history of the city were decided upon at a meeting of the bankers yesterday afternoon. Committees were appointed to handle the business end of the affair, and details concerning the parade and rally which is to follow were discussed.

The general committee which will have charge of the affair will consist of Robert Norris, chairman; J. L. Evans, A. Basileone, J. L. Angle, W. P. Schenck, M. B. Pryce, P. Bufano, C. W. Downs, C. Corrado, John Duggan, Sr., J. L. Stasler, John Irwin, W. L. Wright, Harry Dunn, A. O. Stone and E. T. Norton.

A committee to interest foreign societies in the affair is: P. Bufano, G. Corrado, A. Basileone, R. DeAngelis, A. Chiavoni, P. D'Anna, F. Gialardi, R. Gialardi, P. Gigliotti, G. Trevisia, E. Ross, F. A. Kail, M. Deancin, R. Mac-lac and A. Travilio.

The following bands will be asked to participate: The Connellsville Military band, the South Connellsville band, the Italian band, the Colored band, the Leisestrum Nos. 1 and 3 bands, the Kurtz drum corps and the Salvation Army band.

The parade will begin at 3 o'clock. No automobiles will be permitted in line. After the parade, the Liberty loan rally will be held on the grounds of the Carnegie Free library, providing the weather is favorable. If rain prevents the outdoor speaking, there will be mass meetings in the library and in the Christian and Baptist churches. The stores may close during the afternoon, which will be declared a holiday. All are asked to decorate for the occasion.

These organizations will be invited to participate: Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish-American veterans, Boy Scouts, Parochial School Cadets, Navy League, Red Cross, bankers, fire departments of Connellsville and South Connellsville, school teachers of Connellsville and South Connellsville, Connellsville Rifle Club, church members and members of organized Bible classes, all foreign societies, Trades & Labor council, business men and employees, parochial school teachers, the colored draftees, who leave very shortly, and all other societies.

FLOOD LIGHTING OF CRAWFORD MEMORIAL WOULD COST LITTLE

Statue Could Be Illuminated Three Hours Nightly for About $2.25 a Month.

W. W. Edie of the West Penn and A. O. Stone yesterday erected a flood light on top of the Masonic temple to illuminate the Crawford monument. The current was turned on last night and the heroic figure of the distinguished pioneer standing out in bold relief from the darkness of the library lawn made a very pretty effect.

The statue will be flood lighted tonight, Saturday and Sunday, the Masonic association having consented to have the lamp connected up with the temple wiring and to pay for the current.

It would cost only about $2.25 a month to flood light the statue three hours a night. The effect is so good that a movement may be started to raise money and contract for its permanent illumination.

MANY ASK EXEMPTION

More Than 50 Per Cent of Men Examined in No. 5 Do Not Want to Go.

Out of 81 men of District No. 5 examined at the armory this morning, only 17 did not file exemption claims. Of the remaining 64 men there were a few turned down on account of physical disabilities. Many foreigners, claiming to be aliens, filed papers and seemed well informed as to what grounds they should claim exemption on.

Four of the men who did not appear for the examination can be accounted for, they having been excused until tomorrow, but the remaining 15 are to be classed as slackers, unless they show up tomorrow for the tests with good reasons for their absence today.

Another 100 men have been called for examination tomorrow morning.

Rent Trinity Church

The old Trinity Episcopal church on Crawford avenue, West Side, has been rented by the Mission church in the West Side, and will be occupied by the congregation as soon as improvements, which are being made upon the church are completed. Until recently the colored Baptists held services in the church.

C. S. Court Jurors

Logan Rush, James J. Coe and W. S. Stickle, the latter two of Perryopolis, and John Sherrick of Mount Pleasant, are among the petit jurors drawn to serve during the November term of the United States District court.

DUNBAR AROUSED TO PERILS OF NO FIRE PROTECTION

Department's Efforts to Secure Apparatus Will Bear Fruit.

BIG PARADE AND RALLY

Attorney John Duggan, State Engineer Glenn L. Moffat, M. B. Pryce and James S. Durr are speakers at Mass Meeting; $150 Subscribed Already.

Dunbar was awakened last night to the dangers resultant upon her lack of fire protection. Concerned over the terrible condition of the town as far as fire fighting material goes, several of the younger men of the town have united in an effort to revive the volunteer fire department, which has languished for years, and last night they staged a Fire Prevention rally, in which the thing was put directly up to the citizens.

The re-organized fire department hopes to secure enough by private subscription and appropriation from council to buy, within a short time, a fire truck with hose and chemical attachments, to put in fire plugs and to get water from the Trotter Water company. Already $150 has been subscribed to the company by private individuals. The leaders feel that they pay as well as the limit and get a truck at once, instead of buying a hose reel, which they would outgrow in a few years.

Attorney John Duggan, Jr., of Connellsville, told the citizens who had gathered for the mass meeting frankly that Dunbar should be ashamed of herself. "This is a thriving town with big industries," he said, "and is progressive in every other way, except in fire protection. I have been informed that you have but two fire plugs, both owned by private concerns, that no water comes into the town with which you can fight fire, that you have not an unsplit piece of hose in the place, have absolutely no fire fighting equipment, and for years had no fire company." Mr. Duggan pointed out that this was not only dangerous, but that it was costly. With insurance rates very high, Mr. Duggan recommended that the citizens elect men to council who would spend money to get fire protection. Five of the seven councilmen are to be elected in November.

Mr. Duggan also recommended that Dunbar model after Connellsville in fire department matters. He gave Supplementary Continued on Page Five.

NEW COMPANY

Splint Coal & Coke Company to Operate in West Virginia.

Connellsville and Uniontown coal men are constantly expanding their activities and with each successive step are becoming still larger factors in the production of coal in both Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The most recent and one of the largest undertakings is that of the Splint Coal & Coke company which is capitalized at $500,000 and is making a complete and up-to-date installation at Adrian, Upshur county, West Virginia to develop a tract of 500 acres of coal. Logan Rush, county commissioner, is president; G. Orville Rush, county treasurer, is secretary and treasurer; W. E. Rice of Connellsville, general manager, and John L. Kock, a well known Connellsville coke region man, is mine superintendent.

The plant, which is new throughout, will be electrically equipped, power being generated on the premises. Twenty-five company houses, a store, a reservoir, power house and other buildings are nearing completion. It is expected that shipment of coal will begin November 1. The plant is on the line of the Coal & Coke railroad and will send its output to the eastern markets.

SURPRISE POSSIBLE

Connellsville Out to Beat Johnstown in Big Game Tomorrow.

Tomorrow will see the big game of the year on Fayette field with Connellsville high meeting Johnstown high. A real struggle is expected, and there are hints that the local boys may show surprising strength. The team is out to beat Johnstown, and a great game is promised. Johnstown beat Uniontown and joined in the hungry crowd to get his meals and when night came that "Bush" doesn't excel in, wrapped himself up in his blankets and no doubt dreamed dreams of a real soldier. He was awakened, no doubt through carelessness, by the band and was made to get up before sunrise along with the other boys. The whole party seemed to get a fine impression of the camp and it was not without regret that the boys bade them farewell when they left today.

An exciting game of football last Sunday between Company D of the Tenth and a picked regimental team ended in a scoreless tie. The game was hard fought all the way through and some very sensational plays were made by Bishop and McMans of Company D. Dewey Miller went in with the local boys during the last half and gave a good account of himself.

Several companies of drafted men arrived in camp today. They are the first of 6,000 that will be sent here to train. It is not known where they are from, but so far as could be learned there were no Connelleville boys among them.

The new regimental hospital is completed and is being used today. When fully equipped, these hospitals, one of which is being built for each regiment, will take care of all the medical and dental corps. No operating will be done.

Mrs. Robert S. Morton of Connelleville, wife of Company D commander, will sing at the regular weekly vaudeville show this evening.

Walter Lazelle and Edgar Burke are on duty in the new hospital today. Milt Bishop has developed into a crack football player. It's hard to find anything in the line of sports that "Blah" doesn't excel in.

An old fashioned Virginia reel led by Dewey Miller, will be the feature of the evening tonight. All old fashioned dances will be danced.

Cy Kennel said he'd hate to be a member of the band. He says they have to get up too early in the morning.

Oliver Moser was missed from camp for several hours this morning. He did not know that there was a lot of work to be done, but he soon found it out.

Jimmie Darr has been elected leader of the "whistling quartet," made up of four of the best whistlers in camp, namely Darr, Fowell, Sudziak and Cuneo. Sergeant Bissel sometimes acts as a substitute.

"Resolved, That George McCormick did more for his country than Abraham Lincoln," is the subject for debate at the regular meeting of the Wednesday afternoon debating club.

The Wednesday afternoon debating club will not convene Wednesday as scheduled on account of its conflicting with the date set by the Scouts sewing club, of which Cliff Crowley is president.

WOMAN SICK TWO YEARS

Could Do No Work.
Now Strong as a Man.

Chicago, Ill.—"For about two years I suffered from a female trouble so I was unable to walk or do any of my own work. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and determined to try it. It brought almost immediate relief. My weakness has entirely disappeared and I never had better health. I weigh 135 pounds and am as strong as a man. I think money is well spent which purchases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. J. O. BRYAN, 1755 Newport Ave., Chicago, Ill.

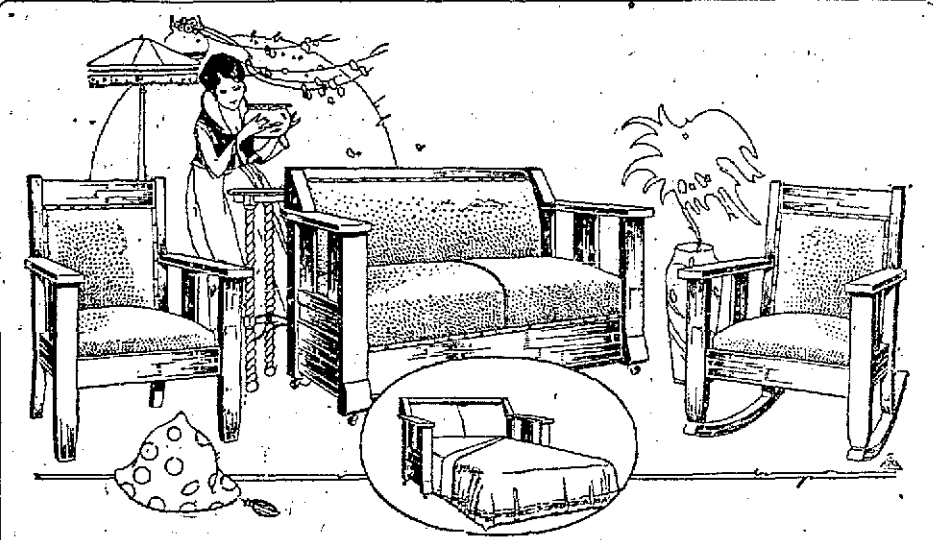

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, and nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Kaltex Fibre, Chair or Rocker Special Price 11.75

Upholstered in Cretonne with Loose Cushions

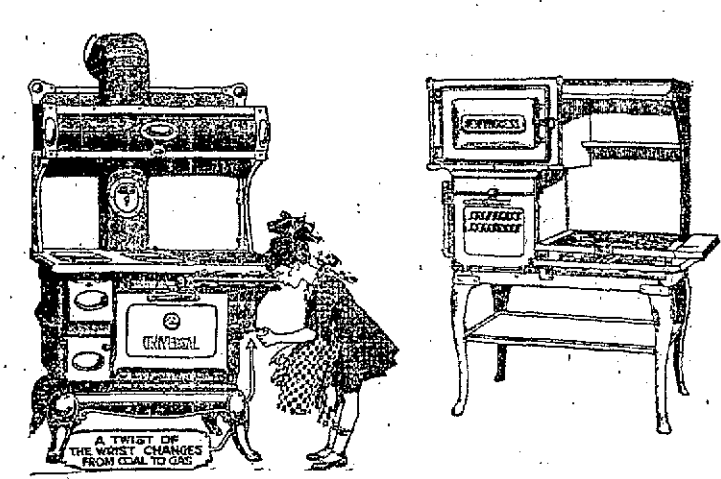

"Kaltex" is The Trade Name For The Finest Fibre Furniture

The name "Kaltex" is to fibre furniture what the name "Sterling" is to silver. The Michigan Seating Co., makers of Kaltex furniture, are known to be the creators of the most unique designs in this type of furniture, as well as producers of the one quality of summer furniture.

The Loose Cushions Are Placed Over Spring Construction Seats.

Not only are these chairs and rockers good to look at but they are splendidly made and designed for comfort. They have coil spring seats, and the backs are deeply upholstered. The finish of the fibre is in a rich bronzed brown, and at this price are unusual values indeed.

TAKING OUR PLACE.

Beginning tomorrow a systematic house-to-house canvass will be made with a view to swelling the total subscriptions to the Liberty Loan at Connelville. The work will be undertaken by ladies of the city who have never hesitated to enter upon and do their full part, yes, even more than their share, in the many activities which have been developed as auxiliary to the vast undertaking of national preparedness.

They will bring to this work, which is a wholly new line of endeavor for them, the same enthusiasm, interest and faithfulness they have displayed in prosecuting the work of the Red Cross, the Navy League and numerous other agencies. They are animated by two desires. First, to do all that they can to insure the speedy conclusion of the war through assisting to provide the means the government needs to prosecute it vigorously and with all its might. Second, they have a pride in seeing that Connelville measures up to expectations and subscribes the full amount of its quota to the Liberty Loan.

If our citizens catch but a little of the spirit which will prompt these ladies to make sacrifices of their time and personal comfort by spending the day at the rather tiresome task of traveling from house to house, there will be but little doubt of the success of the canvass. There ought not to be necessity on their part to appeal to the patriotism and loyalty of our people to join heartily in the raising of Connelville's full quota. Every thoughtful citizen who has considered the situation knows that the war must be won. They know, too, that the United States, the nation upon which must fall the heaviest part of the burden which must be borne before the end of the struggle shall have come. They know equally well that if we fail the allied nations of Europe will also fail and that we, with them, will be placed under tribute to Germany for untold generations. And that government by the people, of the people and for the people will perish from the earth.

What the world knows the war will be won by that nation which can equip and maintain the most effective fighting force. That equipment can be supplied only through the expenditure of money. The money the United States will need for that purpose will come through but two sources. One is through the sale of bonds, by which the people loan their money, receive interest for it on Uncle Sam's promise to repay, secured by a mortgage on every form of property in his domains. The other is by the imposition of taxes, the payment of which is without return other than the protection we all enjoy under our institutions and laws.

All these things are known and understood by those citizens who have given even casual thought to the situation. Doubtless some of them have been less clearly understood than others, but the one thing that is plain is that we must get behind our Liberty Loan. If we lend attentive ear to what the lady bond boosters have to say to us we will very readily learn how to take our place in the drive our boys now in the training camps will bring to a finish in Berlin.

A CURB MARKET.

The establishment of a curb market in Connelville ought to do much toward stimulating a larger production and better distribution of farm and garden products in this vicinity, while providing a means of bringing the grower and consumer into a closer relation.

There have been few, if any, seasons when there has been such a clamor for production of home-grown vegetables to supply the local demand. One largely to the fact that we are without market facilities owners of land which is suitable for market gardening have not, with few exceptions, engaged in the industry beyond the needs of their own families. The result has been that the produce merchants of the city have been obliged to purchase their stocks at distant points and have them transported to Connelville by rail.

While this form of transportation service has received careful attention from the railroads, and quick movement is the rule, several days must of necessity elapse between the time of gathering in the fields or garden and arrival at the place of retail distribution. This makes it impossible for the imported products to be furnished in a state of freshness equal to those home-grown which can be gathered in the evening and delivered early the next morning for purchase by consumers.

A curb market will provide this deficiency if the gardeners and growers in the territory contiguous to the city make preparations to take advantage of it. This will call for increased plantings as well as increase in the number of persons taking up the business of market gardening. Unless there is such an increase as will provide ample stocks to meet the demands of the consumers, the market will not accomplish much in the direction of solving the problem of meeting the needs of buyers, or providing a profitable outlet for the disposal of home-grown products.

The successful establishment of a curb market, like every other enterprise designed to serve the community, will depend almost wholly upon the degree of co-operation shown by the people; not alone of consumers in the city, but also of the farmers and gardeners who live in the neighborhood. If the city provides the facilities for the establishment of the market, producing the articles to be distributed through it will be the task the farmers and gardeners will have to perform. If this is done, and reasonable and fair schedules of prices are adopted, the people may be depended upon to do their part by patronizing those who bring their products to the market for disposal. In such an event the market will prove a very useful addition to the city's institutions and will insure the stability and profitability of market gardening as a business.

When soldiers walk 25 miles in France just to have a talk with boys whom they knew "back home," can't you imagine how glad they will be to receive a letter or paper? You will not feel satisfied with yourself until you have sent them one or the other—better both.

It is a poor patriot indeed who will not follow the lead of the soldiers who are giving 46 per cent of their pay and 100 per cent of themselves to the service of Uncle Sam.

Compelling the prize winners in the Halloween parade to really win by staying in line until the finish is fair to those who stay in but don't win.

With the mass meeting in the Library tonight, the ladies beginning their canvass tomorrow and the big demonstration on Liberty Day next week, Connelville is certain to fill a large place in the Liberty Loan campaign in Fayette county. It will fall short of expectations and needs, however, if you do not take your full part in all these activities.

Mutinies are about the best things that can be "made in Germany" just now.

Many have felt the tug at the heart strings when our boys marched away. Now it is time to tug at the purse strings so that the boys may soon march back.

"Write, write" is the plea the letter-hungry soldiers are sending from "Somewhere in France." Answer it from everywhere in America and cheer the boys up.

No doubt many young men in this section, subject to draft, are hoping a call will come for recruits for Company D.

Will Germany boast of the "efficiency" of the mutinies which are occurring with increasing frequency among her sailors?

Rippling Rhymes

WILD GEESSE.

Wild geese were flying south today; I heard them honking overhead; and to my aunt I paused to say, "The winners coming, autumn's dead. It's up to me to lay in coal, to buy a stock of flour and spuds, to strip my attic and meager raft for weather strips and winter duds. The weather prophet, in his den, may tell us what next week may bring, but all the prophecies of men are merely tommyrot by Jinx. I would not for cold days prepare. I warn by any human feat; man says tomorrow will be fair, and it is dark and black and drab. Man says tomorrow will be cold, and it's so hot we stew in sweat; no weather rightly was foretold by any human prophet yet. The wild geese have no maps or charts, no instruments of brass or steel; they do not try to break our hearts with "highs" or "lows" or "kindred spiel. They have no traps to measure wind, to weigh the clouds or test the air, but when for southern climes they're skinned, for wintry days we should prepare. I saw the wild geese gallantly, some southern land in their gait; so lend me forty bones, dear aunt, and I'll lay in a stock of coal."

LIFE'S ARITHMETIC.

We are taught to reckon the dollars aright, but not how to reckon our deeds.

And that is the sort of arithmetic true that life for its purposes needs.

We are teaching our children that money will grow, we show them the right way to add.

And seldom we talk of dead men have done, but often we count what they had.

But the sum of our toll is the sum of our lives, we've been false to our duty or true.

As the records shall show the additions, we've made to the work God has sent us to do.

Oh, there's an arithmetic, too, for the soul, there are deeds that are noble to add.

And he that is worthy shall grow in esteem and the days of his age shall be glad.

You can reckon a life by the figures you use to reckon the money you hold.

By multiplication do kindness grow, by subtraction our sin shall be told.

And the balance shall show on the record of life as plain as the books in a bank.

From the figures in deeds that are written down there with the great or the mean we shall rank.

They are teaching my boy how to add and divide, he has learned how to count up to ten.

He will know, his arithmetic well by the time he must take up life's battle with men.

But it's that must teach him that kindness grows and virtues are things he can add.

That the sum of his life shall be told in the good that is left by subtracting the bad.

He can add up his work as men add up their wealth. Oh, this is the lesson he needs.

That his final success in his toiling on earth shall depend on the sum of his deeds.

HOOPER & LONG'SThe Proof in Sales!

The proof of the newspaper advertising pudding is not so much in the eating as in the delightful after effects.

To illustrate: A large Philadelphia manufacturer had used other media, and it was only after much persuasion he was induced to try newspapers.

After one year's experiment his sales manager wrote the BUREAU OF ADVERTISING:

"Results have been so encouraging as to sell our company a national campaign of advertising through the newspapers."

When all is said and done it is results that count. And newspaper advertising gives results.

The BUREAU OF ADVERTISING, American Newspaper Publishers Association, 306 World Bldg., New York City, will be glad to present facts to manufacturers and distributors on the use of newspaper advertising.

DUNBAR AROUSED TO PERILS OF NO FIRE PROTECTION

Chief of Public Safety M. B. Fryce and the West Side volunteers a fine boost.

The entire celebration was arranged by the prime movers in the Dunbar department, which now has 64 enrolled members and 14 active ones. It began with a parade which formed at the school house and traversed the principal streets of the town.

Leading the procession was Police- man Russell May on horseback. Following came an automobile containing the speakers of the evening. Connells- ville volunteer firemen carried their big flag just ahead of the South Con- nellsville band, which furnished the music. The Connellsville and South Connellsville firemen were next in line. The Boy Scouts of Dunbar fol- lowed, dragging with them a unique little float boosting the Liberty Loan. The Dunbar truck, and two of the Connellsville trucks, the hook and ladder and No. 3 brought up the rear.

The speaking was held from a plat- form on Connellsville street opposite the Dunbar Hardware & Plumbing company store. A big crowd gathered around in the street to hear the inter- esting talks.

Alfred Hampton, chairman of the meeting, introduced Glenn L. Moffat, state engineer of the bureau of labor and industry, of Harrisburg as the first speaker. Mr. Moffat had been in Pittsburgh attending a conference of labor department officials and came to Dunbar with State Factory In- spector James S. Darr of Connells- ville, who also attended the Pittsburgh conference. Francis Feehan of Pitts- burg, who was to have been a speaker, was unable to be present because of the calling of another meeting of de- partment officials and Mr. Moffat took his place on the program. Mr. Moffat spoke briefly on fire protection and fire prevention telling of the various fire hazards and how they can be avoided.

Following Mr. Moffat Mr. Duggan made his talk. Director of Public Safety M. B. Fryce of Connellsville was then introduced. He spoke of the need for conservation in these war times and told of the importance of fire prevention in this connection. State Factory Inspector James S. Darr, feeling that the other speakers had covered the fire prevention subject pretty thoroughly, confined him- self to speaking of his duties as in- spector in regard to the enforcement of the child labor and female labor law.

The affair was arranged by a com- mittee consisting of Guy Corrado, chairman, James V. Connell secre- tary; Charles Magee, Alfred Ham- pton, Peter Beedlow and H. T. Ellen- berger. Mr. Hampton is president of the volunteer department and Mr. Connell secretary.

Following the meeting, Frank Cor- rado served the speakers with a hand- some supper at the Dunbar House.

CONNELLVILLE DRUG CO.,
W. Crawford Ave.

New Mining Town in Maryland.

The Wolf Den Coal company is to build a new town at Shallmar in Maryland opposite Harrison West Virginia. This company has begun business with an initial purchase of 1,400 acres of coal land. A six-mile and two miles of standard gauge railroad are to be part of the equip- ment.

RAILROADS WILL ASK FOR AID

General Increase in Freight Rates or A Federal Loan Among the Meth- ods for Securing Funds.

Reports that the railroads are con- sidering informally asking the gov- ernment to help them in some way to obtain money with which to main- tain and enlarge their plants and equip- ment and enable them to cope with the high tide of traffic are regarded by Washington officials as forecast- ing a concerted move soon toward that end.

What form this move will assume apparently has not been decided by the roads themselves. It is reported they have under consideration several courses.

One possible method is renewed peti- tion for a general increase in the freight rate.

Another is to request the govern- ment to loan the railroads money on railroad securities. For this how- ever special legislation would be ne- cessary.

Other plans, details of which have not been revealed are said to be un- der consideration.

Railroads now are earning very nearly as much as last year which marked the high tide, but within the last two months operating expenses have shown an increase said to be out of all proportion to the increase in gross receipts.

Railroad executives say that as the government has a virtual monopoly through Liberty bond issues of the investment funds of the country they have found it almost impossible to get money.

Since the Interstate Commerce commission's dismissal of the 1 per cent case, a 10 per cent fall in the commission show that the railroads have fully recovered from their set- back of last winter due to the car shortage and congestion. However, another difficulty has arisen in rap- idly mounting operating expenses.

Statistics of every sort have risen the roads executives assert in some cases more than 25 per cent within the past few months. Labor is demanding wages never paid before it is claimed with further increases in prospect. There have to be met it is said unless the roads are to lose valuable men who are offered more in other trades.

A resume for August of railroad operations for the entire country made public by the commission with all roads reporting except eight, shows that gross operating receipts increased nearly $37,000,000 over August 1916 but that net revenue from operations despite the heavy in- crease—about 13 per cent—fell more than $4,000,000 below the fig- ure of a year ago. While gross re- ceives touched the highest level ever recorded in any August expenses in- creased $4,000,000 and net revenue per mile fell off from $628 to $607.

Eastern and Western roads were especially hard hit the compilation shows. Gross revenues of the for- mer $19,000,000 more than a year ago touched $160,000,000 but expenses more than kept pace with the in- crease and net revenues fell ap- proximately $2,500,000. Under those of August 1916, Western roads showed a $10,000,000 increase in receipts and a $12,000,000 increase in expenses. Only Southern roads made net revenue $1,000,000 more than a year ago.

URGES CONTROL OF COAL INDUSTRY BY THE GOVERNMENT

Chairman Peabody of Coal Committee Presents His Views.

WOULD AVOID WASTAGE

In Mining, Making That the First Step in a Complete System of Governmental Regulation; Profitable Returns Must be Assured Upon Coal.

In his address before the American Institute of Mining Engineers held in St. Louis last week, Francis S. Peabody, chairman of the Committee on Coal Production of the Council of National Defense, made an urgent plea for strong governmental control of the coal mining industry, preferably through the Federal Trade Commission.

Directing attention to the wasteful methods in coal mining, Chairman Peabody characterized current practice as not only wasting the heritage of the people, but was placing almost insurmountable difficulties for succeeding operators to overcome in working thinner veins of coal that are left.

He declared it would be far better if a situation could be created in the near future by a government-regulated mining business, which would cause present properties to be operated on a reasonable basis, returning to fair percentage of recovery in coal, with regulations that would insure the best conditions for the safety of life and limb, and so founded that the operator would be assured a reasonable return on the capital invested.

The business of mining coal, Mr. Peabody asserted, is beset by all manner of waste—waste of natural resources, waste of the human element and waste of capital, and the people do not seem to realize how nearly future generations will have to pay for this.

He explained the great loss in coal in the Illinois "room pillars," the leaving in the mines of "room pillars," coal between the rooms, and the "chain pillars," coal between the entries, generally through inability to remove them on account of the "gob" or refuse that has been placed alongside them while taking coal from the rooms and because of the fall of slate and roof resulting from insufficient and temporary timbering.

Coal left in the ground is not the only loss, Mr. Peabody pointed out. The pillars prevent the overlying strata from sinking evenly, in most cases breaking through the surface, thereby spoiling the surface drainage, frequently leaving a seriously level surface rolling and full of sink holes. He estimated that fully $7,000,000 tons of screenings had been wasted in the state of Illinois, prior to the advent of the automatic stoker in 1890, which created a market for this cheaper grade of coal, which always had been thrown away, or left in the mines.

He declared that the business must be regulated from every standpoint and must start at the bottom. He advocated that the government commission must be assured that the prospective operator owns, or controls, sufficient coal land to permit a mine large enough to produce a sufficient tonnage to return the investment in the surface and plant and non-movable machinery, in other words, to wipe out the capital accounts by the time the coal is exhausted.

NEW RIVER MINES

Waynesburg People Incorporate Two New Coal Enterprises.

Two new coal operations are to be opened in the Monongahela river in Greene county by Waynesburg parties. The Sand Hill Coal company will develop a mine about one-half mile above New Geneva on the right bank of the river.

The Cumberland Coal company of Waynesburg has been chartered with a capital stock of $20,000 to operate a tract of 175 acres of Waynesburg coal fronting on the Monongahela river in Cumberland township. The incorporators are Chas. W. Waychoff, T. H. Shannon and Roy J. Waychoff.

Coal Trade of Hall.

During the eight months, January-August, 1,936,382 tons of coal were received at Hull, England, from the collieries in that district as compared with 2,212,732 tons in the corresponding months of 1916.

"I'M A GENUINE BOOSTER," SAYS OFFICER HENRY

Well Known Erie Policeman Pays Tanlac Fine Tribute.

William R. Henry, the well-known Erie policeman, who resides at 420 German street, Erie, Pa., made the following interesting statement recently regarding the benefits he had received from Tanlac, the new combatant, tonic, appetizer and invigorant that is now accomplishing such remarkable results in this city. Mr. Henry said:

"My stomach was out of order and I did not feel refreshed from my sleep.

"After taking Tanlac for about two weeks my stomach is now in good shape. My appetite and digestion are perfect, and I can eat anything. My sleep is fine. You can say for me that Tanlac is one good medicine, and that I am a booster for Tanlac."

There is not a single portion of the body not benefited by the healthful work of Tanlac, which begins its action by stimulating the digestive and assimilative organs, thereby enriching the blood and invigorating the whole body.

Tanlac enables the stomach to thoroughly digest its food, thereby permitting the assimilable products to be converted into blood, bone and muscle.

Tanlac is being sold here at the Connelville Drug Co.

Tanlac can also be secured in Dunbar at D. C. Eason's drug store.—Adv.

Mount Pleasant

Special to The Courier.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 19.—A membership campaign has been inaugurated by the Protected Home Circle, and teams have been organized to arouse interest in the contest. The two captains chosen at a meeting last night are Mrs. Margaret Wiltrout, and S. Sheen. The circle will hold a masquerade social on October 27 to give impetus to the contest. A committee of five, appointed to make arrangements for it includes Edward King, Elmer Whetzel, Ernest Copeland, Mrs. Maude Farhat and Mrs. Frank Nicks.

Lots of Music Clubs. Two orchestras and a vocal chorus have been organized in the Mount Pleasant schools, which are training under the direction of Prof. J. Hunter Gambles, and Elsiebeth Jones, respectively. High school students compose the senior orchestra while the junior orchestra is composed of scholars from the sixth grade up. For the first time, the Mount Pleasant high school has an organized chorus. The vocal teacher, Elsiebeth Jones, has organized the students and now has a chorus of 80 voices. Practice is held every Thursday and singing books have been ordered. The junior orchestra is also a new organization. The youngsters are enthusiastic, however, and they show promise of making good. Old violins that their fathers and mothers used have been dug out of attics, and these form the nucleus of the junior orchestra.

Arbor Day.

Arbor Day will be observed in the Mount Pleasant schools as Patrons Day. Special exercises and recitations will be conducted in the grades and the high school literary society has arranged a program. In order to show parents the progress students have made in penmanship, which is being taught in the schools here for the first time, the scholars wrote invitations for the event, which they took home to their parents.

To Visit Camp.

Robert Ramsey and Elmer Strickler of United, and Charles White of this place, left yesterday morning for Camp Hancock, Augusta, Georgia, where they will visit the local soldiers. The party is making the trip by automobile. Ramsey has a son, Robert, Jr., in Company E, and White has a brother in Company I. Captain Hitchman Back.

Captain J. D. Hitchman, of the Tenth Regiment Headquarters company, located at Camp Hancock, Augusta, Ga., is home on a short furlough. He is very much pleased with camp life.

Notes.

Mrs. James Zundell and daughter Betty, will leave in a few days for Augusta, Ga., where they will join Captain James Zundell, who is in Camp Hancock with Company E of the Tenth Regiment. They will remain in the south until the Tenth moves.

Maria Barrientos Sings Coloratura Gem
Vocal di Primavera. (Voices of Spring.) Strauss. 49171, 12-inch, $3.00

How the heart of Strauss would swell with joy could he hear Maria Barrientos—the most sensational of all the Metropolitan coloratura sopranos—trill her bird-like way through his immortal Spring Song! More marvelous than the singing of a bird because it comes from a human throat, her voice surpasses the crystal purity of the flute. At the close is a wonderful climax—Barrientos and the flute in wonderful interplay.

Stracciari in Brilliant Soldier Farewell Song
Faust. (Gounod.) Dio Possente (Even Blavest Heart). 49214, 12-inch, $1.50

Fifty years backward Stracciari turns the opera scores to find a song of warrior bold that gives his vigorous baritone voice full range and dramatic scope. The farewell song of the soldier Valentine as he goes to war seems as though it were expressly written for these present days. "Even bravest heart may swell in the moment of farewell"—Stracciari, leading baritone of the Chicago Opera, enriches these poignantly touching lines with grandeur and magnificence.

Popular Songs, New Dances—and Others

The November list of Columbia Records—which you can hear at any Columbia dealer's now—is one of the best-balanced lists ever offered by the Columbia Graphophone Company. It includes twenty song hits. Among these are "Send Me Away With a Smile" (A2355) 75c; "Sailin' Away on the Henry Clay" (A2364) 75c; "Your Country Needs You Now" (A2361) 75c; "I've Got the Nicest Little Home in D-I-S-I-E" (A2356) 75c. Among the ten carefully selected double disc dance records are arrangements of "Hello, My Darling!" (A5985) 12-inch, $1.25; "Send Me Away With a Smile" (A5990) 12-inch, $1.25; "Everybody's Jazzin' It" (fox trot) (A2347) 75c.

MOST BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE OF HOPPE

WILLIE HOPPE, BILLIARD CHAMPION OF WORLD.

Unquestionably the most brilliant performance of William F. Hoppe, the remarkable mastery of the ivory ball, was his astonishing display of Maurice Vignaux, the noted expert, who had vanquished by all the other American players known.

The match between the eighteen-year-old American boy and the veteran Frenchman took place at the Grand Hotel, Paris, on January 15, 1906, and won by the youngster by the decisive score of 500 to 323. When it is considered that the style of play was the most difficult of all billiard games, the victory of the boy was all the more remarkable.

He fact that Hoppe's average was 20-24, against 14-123 by Vignaux, that the victor made a high run of 75, while the loser's best run of 61, shows how completely the th outclassed the older player.

Vignaux Was Champion. Previous to this match Vignaux had defeated Schuster, Simpson and Sutton, was the champion of eighteen, in Hoppe challenged for the honors, he French master and his friends highly amused, for they had not been informed as to the ability of the chap, who had discarded knickerbockers but a few years previously.

Vignaux started off in the lead and ended with the greatest confidence. The youngster performed with surprising skill and steadiness, but the onkers were of the opinion that he would break down under the strain of Frenchman's progressive counting.

At the end of the eleventh inning, the end of the match was over. The scores were: Hoppe, 123; Vignaux, 323.

In the twelfth, Hoppe, with a splendid mace, placed the spheres nicely and ran a perfectly scored 23, falling with an all-around shot to get outside the line.

Vignaux, now on his mettle, completed 47, this run being remarkable for a powerful screw driver.

Betting on Vignaux. When the interval came, with the ore 308 to 288, in favor of Vignaux, there was a little betting on Vignaux 15 to 4 in the French division, but Americans could not be drawn in any price.

Recommending, Hoppe scored only Vignaux put together a moderate 4, giving the balls well together. This is the beginning of his downfall, for though the little American had a narrow squeeze as a result of having too only at the eleventh stroke, he sailed ahead, trying Vignaux when he had made 33.

After putting together 51, Hoppe was ahead by 2 points only. After Vignaux had replied with 9, his breakdown being again a failure to get the balls out of bulk, the game was in Hoppe's hands, for in the five following breaks he made 219 to 84 culminated by Vignaux in his four innings.

Run 53 for Record. Hoppe's 53 in the twenty-second inning was the record. It was made without a flick. The boy gave one of the grandest exhibitions of billiards imaginable. Time after time he had to stop until the applause ceased.

When at the beginning of the twenty-fourth inning, wanting 75 to win, Hoppe took his place at the table one could almost have heard a pin drop. In almost breathless silence broken only by the marker's voice, he put on point after point, nurses, recalls and cushion carrows being faultlessly made.

At 57 it looked as though he would break down, but with a four-cushion carrom he had the balls in close company and ran out.

America is Put on Market. Ancient Yacht, Winner of Royal Squadron Cup, Is For Sale—Is in Good Condition.

America, which won the Royal Yacht Squadron cup 60 years ago, August 22, 1857, is offered for sale by her present owners, Paul Butler and Mrs. Blanche Butler Ames.

She is now laid up at a wharf in Boston, and is in first-class condition. That she will not go to the junk heap is practically certain, for before the war several rich men tried to induce the Butlers to sell without success, and members of the New York Yacht club have been anxious to have her.

Furthermore, an examination of her hull showed her to be in first-class condition, and although she has been outbuilt by modern designers, she is still able to sail, and sail at a good rate of speed, if there is ample wind to drive. She never was a good drifter, but, given a gale whole-sail breeze, she will show her heels to many much younger.

LIKELY TO LOSE ITS RATING. With Denver Out of Western League Standing as Class A Circuit May Be Surrendered.

If another attempt is made this winter to reorganize the league remaining under the protection of the National association, then the Western league is likely to lose its standing as a Class A league, a rating it has claimed by concession rather than actual population. With Denver out of the league, as now seems possible, next year, and a small town like Hutchinson in the circuit, the Western might have some trouble mastering population enough even to make a Class B league. The circumstances are of interest, in connection with territorial changes.

Photographs in Air. The photograph is proving a useful adjunct to observation officers on duty in the air. These officers, forced to keep their field-glasses continually on the positions they are observing, have found considerable difficulty in making notes of details as quickly as they see them. Observation airplanes are now fitted with a registering photograph into which the officers speak through an acoustic tube. Thus all the points the observer has noted are correctly recorded for future use.

"PASS UP" $500,000

Amount Yale, Princeton and Harvard Toss to Discard.

Big Sum of Money Big Colleges Could Coax From Sporting Public's Bottomless Pocket Will Be Left Untouched.

Half a million dollars which has annually been spent for the last three years by spectators at the football games of Harvard, Yale and Princeton will be saved or diverted elsewhere this year. The withdrawal of the Big Three from varsity football for the 1917 season will leave this large sum in circulation.

The sad part of the circumstance is that the $500,000 is ready to be exchanged for football tickets again this fall, but the three universities have decided that it ought not to cheat the sporting public by putting on inferior teams, and not a cent of the money will come into the athletic treasuries as a result.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton can afford to pass up its annual taking of football receipts this season better than most of the other colleges, but nevertheless these three fellows could find plenty of uses for the money. Flood charges are still going on in Cambridge, New Haven, and Princeton, N. J. and for the absence of varsity football, such charges will amount to a loss. Office salaries still continue, and the usual expense for the upkeep of the football plants must be met. Money to meet these normal expenses must come out of the athletic treasury, for it is the law that sports must be kept as a separate item and not encroach on the academic appropriations.

When the war is over and athletics is resumed, it is certain that Harvard, Yale and Princeton, in common with most of the other colleges of the country, will face deficits in the athletic departments. In the case of the Big Three, however, it will probably not take more than a single football season to balance the ledgers. Football is always the best paying sport, and can be depended on to make more than its heavy expenses. In a few years immediately following the war, however, it is probable that some of the other sports will have to be handled more economically than they previously were. Crew racing, for instance, rolls up a heavy expense and returns but little in receipts. The same thing goes for track athletics. In the reconstruction period it is probable that football can pay for itself and make up for the deficit caused by the unprofitable war years, but there will not be much money left over to pay for the big losses rung up by the nonpaying sports. For that reason, economy will still have to be practiced after all departments of sports are once more operating on a normal basis.

QUICK WORK

By Locomotive and Car Builders in Filling Government Orders.

American manufacturing enterprise again has demonstrated its ability to meet the extraordinary demands of war. It has been disclosed that within 20 days after the War Department delivered designs for special locomotives and cars for the troops in France the first 630 engines and the first 6,500 cars were ready for shipment.

French railroads will not stand the weight and length of standard American rolling stock. The special engines weigh 168,500 pounds and the new cars are only 36 feet in length, to negotiate the short curves of French roads. They are equipped with French couplings, and the French cars can be used in trains with the American equipment. The engines are eight-wheel drive type, giving them great traction for the heavy loads they will haul in the American front.

The railway equipment sent from the United States will be painted battleship gray to make it as inconspicuous as possible. The first engine bearing the marking "U. S. A. No. 1" soon will be in operation on the French lines.

It is understood that five engineer regiments, composed largely of railway men, will handle the new equipment.

BOND FATE MAY REST IN FARMER HANDS

Slow Sales in The Cities
May Make It Necessary to Call Him to The Rescue

Cleveland, O.—Special.—The farmer came nobly to the rescue in the food crisis last spring. He will have to come to the rescue again, quickly and substantially, if the Second Liberty Loan is to have the big over-subscription that had been hoped for. So far in every district the city subscriptions have been coming slower than had been expected. Whether the late harvest, that always features a sale of the city, will be sufficiently strong to make up for the early tardiness remains to be seen.

In the first hand drive the farmer pulled steadily in meeting expectations. There were two chief reasons for this. He wasn't at all sure then how his crops would turn out, for the weather conditions were unpromising and he was short handed. Then he wasn't solicited as were his brothers by the city. When he subscribed to the bond issue it was from a feeling of patriotism purely and simply. He wanted to help his country and his neighbor. He wanted to help his country and his neighbor. He wanted to help his country and his neighbor.

Ohio farmers will be called upon to bear the greater portion of the burden for the craft. The Pennsylvania and West Virginia counties in the district are not particularly strong in an agricultural way. Their richness lies in other things—coal, oil, lumber and manufacturing. The Kentucky territory, for the most part, it is not highly populated, yet the farmers in that section have done better this year than in the last two decades. And early reports indicate that they are responding well to Uncle Sam's call.

Here are some of the reasons why the Ohio farmer should subscribe liberally, and in considering them one should not overlook the fact that this is an exceptional year, crops and prices are at the top mark, and the figures offered are those of seven years ago.

Ohio in 1910 had 24,195,708 acres of farm land, of which 19,227,569 acres were under cultivation; total value $1,903,694,533. This is approximately one-twentieth of the entire farm value of the United States. Operating these farms were 372,045 farmers, of whom 192,104 were actual owners, the rest being either managers or tenant-farmers. The average value of farm lands then was $33.24 an acre.

Complete figures upon the value of farm products are not obtainable, but those applying to the chief farm products are interesting. Ohio produced in 1909, 157,433,309 bushels of corn, worth $33,227,368, at an average price of 58 cents a bushel. Today the price is around $2 a bushel. The potato production totaled 29,832,894 bushels, worth $9,977,755. Present price 57 cents. Wheat represented $11,129,975 for 30,863,704 bushels, at 94 cents a bushel. This year it will bring at least $2.20 a bushel.

In addition to these items Ohio looms large in the raising of livestock and poultry. With a livestock valuation of $119,332,112, in 1909, Ohio was surpassed only by Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas and Texas. And with poultry products valued at approximately $29,000,000, Ohio gave place only to Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Farm production this year will surpass in 11 of these lines, save perhaps livestock, the figures of seven years ago. And in valuation there is really no comparison. In most cases prices have more than doubled.

The answer to this is that the farmer is better off financially today than he has been in years; he is better able to buy a Liberty Bond and aid Uncle Sam in putting an early end to this war. And he will be asked to do it. He will have no alibi if he fails to respond.

The Second Liberty Loan

Something More Than Patriotism

Take time to read this.

The patriotism of the American investor has already been put to test, and proved both fervent and practical.

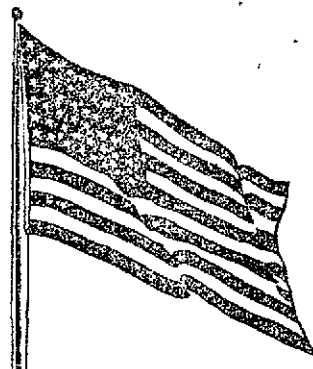

More than four million subscribers responded to the call of the first Liberty Loan. Of these, probably three-fourths had never before bought a bond of any kind.

Beyond question, it was a great burst of patriotism that brought about the heavy over-subscription of the first loan. Few people sought to analyze it as an investment. It was above all the expression of their determination to help win the war. The second Liberty Loan will be supported by a patriotism even more profound. That may be taken for granted.

But since the Government asks not for a gift, but for a loan, it is no reflection upon the generous spirit of the nation to examine the second Liberty Loan strictly upon its financial merits. When we do so, we find that it is an extraordinarily sound, profitable, business-like investment.

1. The security behind a United States Government Bond is the best in the world.

The credit of the United States is the best in the world. We have a national wealth of probably 250 billions, a national income of about 40 billions yearly and bank resources of 37 billions. One-third of the estimated wealth of the entire world belongs to this country—more than double the wealth of any other nation—three times the wealth of Germany.

2. The amount which the war compels us to borrow and spend does not affect this security.

In the Civil War, the United States raised three billions, although at that time our bank resources were only one and one-half billions. On the same basis, therefore, this country could now support a national debt of 74 billions.

Before the present war, our debt was about one and one-half billions. Add to that the bond issues authorized this year, including the present loan, and we are still utilizing only a small part of our resources.

We have already entered upon a sweeping campaign of conservation. Everywhere production is being speeded up and consumption reduced. We cannot by these means entirely offset the current wastage of war, but with the coming of peace, this heightened efficiency throughout the entire nation will continue, and will speedily restore and even increase our national resources.

3. The rate of interest is exceptional.

The rate of the interest of the second Liberty Loan is higher than any United States Government loan for more than twenty years. The investment is not only sound but profitable. It is exempt from all taxes except estate and inheritance taxes, income surtaxes and excess profits and war profits taxes.

To those who have not figured it out, the fact that the bonds are subject to these war taxes may make them seem less desirable than the first issue. The fact is, that for any investor whose income is less than $100,000 they are more desirable. The interest rate on the previous issue, at 3½ per cent, is one-eighth less than on the new issue at 4 per cent. Therefore, until the tax amounts to one-eighth of the income, or 12½ per cent, the new issue will be more profitable. Since surtaxes equivalent to 12½ per cent of the income will apply only to those incomes greater than $100,000, any investor with less than that income will obtain a greater net return from the second Liberty Loan than from the first.

4. The market value may increase.

These bonds are assured of a broad market, and their price should never materially decrease. They are convertible into any later issue which may be brought out during the war, carrying a higher interest rate. There is, furthermore, a possibility that in future years they may command a considerably higher price. Normally the credit of the United States Government makes possible an interest rate of 3 per cent or less. If, after the war, the interest rate returns to 3 per cent, Government bonds on which the rate is 4 per cent would be paying one-third more than other bonds, and therefore their market value would rise well above par.

We recommend that our customers subscribe to the Second Liberty Loan not merely as a patriotic duty, but also as a conservative and profitable investment.

Come in today and give us your subscription.

COAL OUTPUT IS INCREASED

Geological Survey Claims: Apparent Shortage Due to Rising Demand Not Reduced Activity at Mines.

The United States Geological Survey has authorized the following statement upon the subject of bituminous coal production:

So much is being said about the shortage of bituminous coal and the general public realizes so little the important gain in output made by the operators under trying conditions last summer over all previous records that the statement just issued by the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior on production in 1917 compared with 1916 is particularly timely.

In commenting on this report, prepared by the statisticians of the Geological Survey, Director George Otis Smith points out that the shortage is not due to the failure of the soft-coal mines to produce more coal than in the past for the country on September 1 was about a month ahead of last year in output and is expected to finish the year with an increase of 16 per cent over 1916 the banner year, and of 25 per cent over 1915.

The tremendous increase in manufacturing and transportation activity this year has created a demand for soft coal in excess of any in the past.

An increase in demand that is difficult to measure in terms of tons, but that is certainly more than the 10 per cent by which production has increased. To meet this demand the mines have been producing soft coal at a rate never before equaled.

In the second week of July, 1917, the average daily production was more than 1,900,000 tons, the highest point yet attained, in the middle of August the lowest rate for the summer, 1,678,000 tons, was recorded, and in the last week of September the daily rate was 1,923,000 tons. In the first eight months of 1917 the output of soft coal was 363,500,000 tons, or 37,000,000 tons more than in the first eight months of 1916. In the same period shipments of anthracite increased 16 per cent over those of 1916.

KING-OF-THE-KHYBER RIFLES

A Romance of Adventure
by TALBOT MUNDY

"He told me just now," said King, "that Yasmini went up the pass, unaccompanied, mounted on a mare the very dead spit of the black one you say you wanted to buy."

Courtenay whistled.

"I'm sorry, King. I'm sorry to say he lied."

King threw away his less than half consumed cigarette and they started to walk together toward King's camp. After a few minutes they arrived at a point from which they could see the prisoners lined up in a row facing Rewa Gunga. A less experienced eye than King's or Courtenay's could have recognized their attitude of reverent obedience. Within two minutes the Ranger stood facing them, looking more at ease than they.

"I was cautioning those savages," he explained. "They're an escort, but they need a reminder of the fact, else they might jolly well imagine themselves mountain goats and scatter among the hills."

He drew out his wonderful cigarette case and offered it open to Courtenay, who hesitated, and then helped himself.

"King refused."

"Major Courtenay has just told me," said King, "that nobody resembling Yasmini has gone up the pass recently. Can you explain?"

"Do you mean, can I explain why the major failed to see her? For my part, King sahib, I don't want to insult the man? Yasmini is a man, isn't he? For me, or for any other man I ever met, and the major's a man, isn't he? He may pack the Khyber so full of men that there's only standing room and still she'll go up without his leave if she chooses. There is nobody like Yasmini in all the world."

The Ranger was looking past him, facing the great gorge that let the north of Asia trickle down into India and back again when weather and the tribes permit. His eyes had become interested in the distance. King wondered why—and looked—and saw Courtenay saw, too.

"Hall that man and bring him here," he ordered.

Ismail, keeping his distance with ears and eyes peeled, heard instantly and hurried off. Fifteen minutes later, an Afghan stood swilling in front of them with a little letter in a cloth stick in his hand. He held it out and Courtenay took it and sniffed.

"Well—Till be blessed! A note!" said King, "a scented paper!"

"Carried down the Khyber in a split stick! Take it, King—it's addressed to you."

King obeyed and sniffed it. It smelt of something far more subtle than musk. He recognized the same strange scent that had been waited for behind Yasmini's silken hangings in her room in Delhi.

From behind Yasmini's silken hangings in her room in Delhi. As he unfolded the note—it was not sealed—he found time for a swift glance at Rewa Gunga's face. The Ranger seemed interested and amused. The note, in English ran:

"Dear Captain King: Kindly be quick to follow me, because there is much talk of a laskar getting ready for a raid. I shall wait for you in Kishan, whether my messenger shall show the way. Please let him keep his life. Trust him, and Rewa Gunga and his thirty whom you brought with you. The messenger's name is Darya Khan. Your servant, Yasmini."

He passed the note to Courtenay, who read it and passed it back.

"I'll find out," the major muttered, "how she got up the pass without my knowing it. Somebody's tell shall be twisted for this!"

But he did not find out until King told him, and that was many days later, when a terrible cloud no longer threatened India from the north.

CHAPTER VII.

"I think I envy you," said Courtenay.

They were seated in Courtenay's tent, face to face across the low table, with guttering lights between and Ismail outside the tent handling pipes and things to Courtenay's servant in side.

"You're about the first who has admitted it," said King.

Not far from them a herd of pack animals grunted and bellowed after the evening meal. The evening breeze brought the smoke of dung fires down to them, and an Afghan—one of the little crowd of traders who had come down with the camels three hours ago—sang a walling song at his lady's love. Overhead the sky was black velvet, pierced with silver holes.

"You see, you can't call an end of the business war—it's sport," said

Courtenay. "Two battalions of Khyber rifles, hired to hold the pass against their own relations. Against them a couple of hundred thousand tribesmen, very hungry for loot, armed with up-to-date rifles, thanks to Russia yesterday and Germany today, and all perfectly well aware that a world war is in progress. That's sport, you know—not the 'hinge and likeness of war' that Jorrocks called it, but the real red root. And you've got a mystery thrown in to give it piquancy. I haven't found out yet how Yasmini got up the pass without my knowledge. I thought it was a trick. Didn't believe she'd gone. Yet all my men swear they know she has gone and not one of them will own to having seen her go! What do you think of that?"

For a while, as he ate Courtenay's broiled quail, King did not answer. But the merry smile had left his eyes and he seemed for once to be letting his mind dwell on conditions as they concerned himself.

"How many men have you at the fort?" he asked at last.

"Two hundred—all natives."

"Take 'em?"

"What's the use of taking?" answered Courtenay. "You know what means when men of an alien race stand up to you and grin when they salute. They're my own."

King added, "Die with you, eh?"

"To the last man," said Courtenay quietly with that conviction that can only be arrived at in one way, and that not the easiest.

"I'd die alone," said King. "I'll be lonely in the hills. Got any more quail?"

And that was all he ever did say on that subject, then or at any other time.

"What shall you do first after you get up the pass? Call on your brother at Ali Masjid? He's likely to know a lot by the time you get there."

"Not sure," said King. "May and may not. I'd like to see him. Haven't seen the old chap in a donkey's age. How is he?"

"Well two days ago," said Courtenay.

"Here's wishing you luck!" said King. "It's time to go, sir."

He rose, and Courtenay walked with him to where his party waited in the dark, chilled by the cold wind whistling down the Khyber. Rewa Gunga sat, mounted, at their head, and close to him his personal servant rode another horse. Behind them were the mules, and then in a cluster, each with a load of some sort on his head, were the thirty prisoners, and Ismail took charge of them obediently.

Darya Khan, the man who had brought the letter down the pass, kept close to Ismail.

King mounted, and Courtenay shook hands; then he went to Rewa Gunga's side and shook hands with him, too.

"Forward! March!" King ordered, and the little procession started.

"Oh, men of the hills, ye look like ghosts—like graveyard ghosts!" jeered Courtenay, as they all filed past him. "Ye look like dead men, going to be judged!"

Nobody answered. They strode behind the horses, with the swift, silent strides of men who are going home to the "hills," but even they, born in the hills and knowing them as a wolf-pack knows its hunting ground, were awed by the gloom of Khyber month ahead. King's voice was the first to break the silence, and he did not speak until Courtenay was out of earshot. Then:

"Men of the hills!" he called.

"Kuch dar nahin hai!"

"Nahin hai! Hah!" shouted Ismail.

"So speaks a man! Hear that, ye mountain folk! He says, 'There is no such thing as fear!'"

In his place in the lead, King whistled softly to himself; but he drew an automatic pistol from its place beneath his armpit and transferred it to a ready position.

Fear or no fear, Khyber month is haunted after dark by the men whose blood feuds are so recking raw to let them dare go home and for whom the British language very likely waits a mile or two farther south. It is one of the few places in the world where a pistol is better than a thick stick.

Boulder, crag and loose rock faded into gloom behind; in front on both hands ragged hillsides were beginning to close in; and the wind, whose home is in Allah's refuse heap, whistled as it searched busily among the black ravines. Then presently the shadow of the thousand-foot-high Khyber walls began to enter them.

After a while King's cheeroot went out, and he threw it away. A little later Rewa Gunga threw away his cigarette. After that, the quiet five-year-old among the Zalika Khels, watching sleepless over the rim of some stone watch tower, could have taken oath that the Khyber's unbroken dead were proving in search of empty graves. Probably their uncanny silence was their best protection; but Rewa Gunga chose to break it after a time.

"King sahib!" he called softly, repeating it louder and more loudly until King heard him. "Slowly! Not so fast! There are men about who would think you are afraid. To seem afraid is to invite attack! Can we defend ourselves with three firearms between us? Look! What is that?"

They were at the point where the road begins to lead uphill, westward, leaving the bed of a ravine and ascending to join the highway built by British engineers. Below, to left and right, was pit-mouth gloom, shadows and shadows, full of eerie whistlings, and King felt the short hair on his back begin to rise. He urged his horse forward. The Ranger followed him, close up, and both horse and man seemed excited.

"Look, sahib!"

"After a second or two he caught a glimpse of bluish flame that flashed suddenly and died again, somewhere below to the right. Then all at once the flame burned brighter and steadier and began to move and to grow.

"Halt!" King ordered; and his voice was sharp and unexpected as a pistol crack. This was something tangible, that a man could flick—a perfect antidote for nerves.

The blue light continued on a zig-zag course, as if a man were running among boulders with an unusual sort of torch; and as there was no answer King drew his pistol, took about thirty seconds' aim and fired. He fired straight at the blue light.

It vanished instantly, into measureless black silence.

"Now you've jolly well done it, haven't you?" the Ranger laughed in his ear. "That was her blue light—Yasmini's!"

It was a minute before King answered, for both animals were all but frantic with their sense of their riders' state of mind; it needed horsemanship to get them back under control.

"How do you know whose light it was?" King demanded, when the horse and man were head to head again.

"It was prearranged. She promised me a signal at the point where I am to leave the track."

King drew his spurs home, and set his unwilling horse to scrambling downward at an angle he could not guess, into blackness he could feel, trusting the animal to find a footing where his own eyes could make out nothing.

To his disgust he heard the Ranger immediately. To his even greater disgust the black mare overtook him. And even then, with his own mount stumbling and nearly pitching him headforemost at each lurch, he was forced to admire the mare's goatlike agility, for she descended into the gorge in running leaps, never setting a wrong foot. When he and his horse reached the bottom at last he found the Ranger waiting for him.

"This way, sahib!"

The next he knew sparks from the black mare's heels were kicking up in front of him, and a wild ride had begun such as he had never yet dreamed of. There was no catching up, for the black mare could gallop two to his horse's one; but he set his teeth and followed into solid night, trusting ear, eye, guesswork and the god of the secret service men, who loves the reckless.

Once in every two minutes he caught sight for a second of the same blue green light that had started the race. He suspected that there were many torches placed at intervals.

His own horse developed a speed and stamina he had not suspected, and probably the Ranger did not dare extend the mare to her limit in the dark; at all events, for ten, perhaps fifteen, minutes of breathless galloping he almost made a race of it, keeping the Ranger either within sight or sound.

But then the mare swerved suddenly behind a boulder and was gone. He spurred round the same great rock a minute later, and was faced by a blank wall of shale that brought his horse up all standing. It led steep up for a thousand feet to the skyline. There was not so much as a goat-track to show in which direction the mare had gone, nor a sound of any kind to guide him.

He dismounted and stumbled about on foot for about ten minutes with his eyes two feet from the earth, trying to find some trace of hoof. Then he listened, with his ear to the ground. There was no result.

He knew better than to shout. After some thought he mounted and began to hunt the way back, remembering turns and twists with a gift for direction that natives might well have envied him. He found his way back to the foot of the road at a trot, where fifty hundred men would have been lost hopelessly; and close to the road he overtook Darya Khan, hugging his rifle and staring about like a scorpion at bay.

"Did you expect that blue light, and this galloping away?" he asked.

"Yes, sahib; I knew nothing of it! I was to lead the way to Kishan."

"Come on, then!"

On the level road above King stared about him and felt in his pockets for a flash torch. He started a match and watched it to be sure his hand did not shake before he spoke. A man must command himself before trying it on others.

"Where are the others?" he asked, when he was certain of himself.

"Gone," boomed Ismail.

King took a dozen pulls at the cheeroot and stared about again. In the middle of the road stood his second horse and three mules with his

Corsets

Present-time Economy

Stretched and broken corsets call for replacement—often a second or third in a single season—where stout figures give severe wear.

Not so with Rengo Belt corsets—they are the strongest and most substantially made garments ever designed, due to the exclusive Rengo Belt feature of tailoring over the abdomen and hips. They will hold their perfect style lines until thoroughly worn out—most women discard their older Rengo Belt garments only when the styles change.

Thus in the purchase of Rengo Belt Corsets you may acquire all you have ever desired in style and comfort and at the same time practice "present-time economy." Boned with double watchspring steels.

COAL MEN TO PLAN MEANS OF SWELLING MINE PRODUCTION

Meeting of National Coal Association To Be Held October 23.

A FAMINE IS NOT FEARED

By Fuel Administrator Garfield Who Predicts That Production Will Be 10 Per Cent Heavier This Year Than Last, or a Total of 522,000,000 Tons.

The National Coal Association has given Dr. H. A. Garfield, the fuel administrator, assurances that it will co-operate with the government and will make a determined attempt to see that production is sufficient for the country's needs. To this end a call has been sent out to all operators for a meeting to be held in Pittsburgh, October 23. This announcement has been made:

"The National Coal Association deems it imperative that coal producers should meet in a general conference for consideration of the present conditions of the industry. The men in this business must see to it that sufficient coal is mined and shipped to meet the needs of the nation. At the same time, the industry must adjust itself to government regulation, so as to insure the fullest co-operation between the operators on the one hand and the officials of the government on the other. These conditions demand the best constructive action which this industry can devise."

After many conferences with coal operators statements were made public by the Fuel Administration officials deprecating the many reports that the country would be faced by an acute coal famine during the coming winter, which would cripple industry and cause suffering.

Dr. Garfield asserted that the bituminous coal production for the year would be 10 per cent greater than last year, despite the reports that mines in some sections have shut down.

The fuel administration, it was also announced, has lists showing the location of more than 3,000,000 tons of free coal—coal not under contract—and bona fide domestic requirements are being taken care of when specific, authentic statements of shortage are furnished.

The Canadian embargo has been lifted and that country is being supplied on a pro rata basis, substantially as if it was a state of the Union. Government figures made public by the fuel administration show that last year the bituminous coal mined was in excess of 502,000,000 tons. The estimate for this year was placed at 522,000,000 tons.

EASTERN ROADS EARNING LESS

Brunt of the War Falls More Heavily Upon Them Than the Roads in the Western Part of the Country.

The latest official computations of statistics of railway earnings and expenses for the country at large comprise none of later date than June 30 last, and it is not particularly unfavorable. Since then, however, conditions have changed appreciably and for the worse, computations based on reports of individual representative roads, especially those operating in the East, showing a pronounced downward trend in respect of net earnings. The systems serving the Northwest appear to continue generally prosperous and, considered as a group, to be producing satisfactory operating results, even under the present strain. Those of the Southwest, on the contrary, are losing ground, while the Southern lines are just about holding their own, net earnings continuing in virtually unchanged ratio, notwithstanding increased gross revenues.

The disparities noted are explicable by the circumstance that the brunt of the war burden is being borne by the roads operating in the East, where are located the principal steel and munition plants, shipyards, ports of exit for troops, and for foodstuffs, and other supplies of allied nations, as well as the chief centers of population, production and consumption. In this section, of which Pittsburgh is the center, the major portion of the money for financing the war preparations is being raised and expended, and it is, to all intents and purposes, a singular industrial community wherein the competition for labor, skilled and intelligent labor, in particular, is keen. And it is because of this last mentioned development that the railroads hereabout are no longer able to maintain adequate operating forces, regardless of wage-scales, the industries overbidding them in every instance. Furthermore, it is in this section that material costs are the highest because of the active general demand for steel, lumber, etc.

In this same Eastern district it has been demonstrated that freight rates, even when conditions were normal, were inadequate to insure returns commensurate to investment in the railroads, which the constantly mounting cost of operating incident to the war are now threatening with actual deficit in some instances, despite the fact that gross earnings are greater than ever before. Some rate advances have been authorized quite recently, but the relief afforded by them is so slight as to be negligible. Additional track, yard, terminal, equipment and motive-power facilities are essential to adequate service, none of which will be practicable to provide in the immediate future.

FOREMAN BOWERS PAYS TRIBUTE TO NERV-WORTH

"Greatest Remedy I Have Ever Known," Declares a Grateful User.

The Nerv-Worth druggist at Martinsburg, W. Va., received the following eloquent signed statement just a few days ago. It was made by W. H. Bowers, a foreman in Martinsburg Interwoven Mills, a widely known and highly esteemed citizen. Says Mr. Bowers:

"I have suffered from stomach trouble and indigestion for 15 years. Food did not digest. Formed a gas in my stomach which greatly interfered with my heart action. And I was very weak. Could not eat a meal without bloating. 'Have tried all the remedies I could learn of to get relief but nothing did me any good until I purchased a bottle of Nerv-Worth. NOW ALL MY TROUBLES HAVE DISAPPEARED and I can eat anything I want and digest it. Am gaining in strength and feel fine. I recommend Nerv-Worth to all, as I think it is the greatest remedy I have ever known of. It certainly straightened me out. 'W. H. BOWERS.'"

The Connelville Drug Co. sells Nerv-Worth in Connelville. Your dollar back if this famous family tonic does not help YOU.

C. L. Kuhn sells Nerv-Worth at Mount Pleasant; C. M. Kuhn at Irwin; C. S. Daugherty at Jeannette; Broadway Drug Co., Scottsdale; W. I. Lewis, Brownsville.—Adv.

Rev. Barnhart to Preach. Rev. W. W. Barnhart of Pitcairn will preach at the United Brethren church here Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. J. S. Showers. Rev. Barnhart is a former pastor of the local church.

RESOURCES OF RUSSIA

In Its Area, Twice That of the United States, are Untold Wealth in Coal, Iron Ore, Etc.

Russia covers one-sixth of the land surface of the globe; her exports in 1912 amounted to only $30,000,000 and her imports to $600,000,000. In the same year America's exports were $2,255,000,000 and her imports $1,653,000,000. And Siberia alone is twice as large as the United States.

The reasons for this discrepancy between opportunity and achievement are to be sought in almost every direction. They are to be found in a low level of education, in imperfect methods of agriculture and in political pressure from outside of Russia. But the fundamental requirement for industrial development—an abundance of raw materials—is buried in the soil of Russia all the way from the Bay of Finland to Vladivostok. This is an iron age. The bases of the industrial structure of modern nations are coal and iron. The United States and Russia are the only great countries in the world that are rich in both coal and iron ore.

Russia's agricultural resources are enormous—and they have been barely touched as yet. The Russian farmer still tills his fields as his grandfather and great-grandfather did. Russia is capable of feeding all Europe with the surplus of her agricultural products. Heretofore there have been periods when she has barely succeeded in feeding herself. That was the result of the antiquated methods of inadequate communication, of a lack of foresight and of incentive under a government which furnished no guarantees or inspiration for the future.

As in manufacturing, so in agriculture, the new order of things is bound to accomplish wonders for Russia. The present period of legislation by extremists may look discouraging for the development of Russian industries, but it is only a temporary phase. Things will right themselves under the impact of the eternal laws of economics. And when they do right themselves, foreign and domestic capital will rush into the vacuum.

Russia is preparing for the future, even amid the turmoil of the present. She is establishing lines of steamships on her 165,000 miles of navigable waterways in Siberia; building better roads and planning regular motor service to remote districts; working on hydro-electric development; purchasing machinery to dig ditches, and preparing to drain river valleys which will furnish a rich soil for grain fields.

FACE COAL SHORTAGE.

New England Industries Must Have More or Close Down.

The estimated need of New England for the year is 32,574,902 tons of bituminous coal. If the receipts continue on the same basis as in the first seven months of the year New England would receive by January 1 only 26,289,907 tons, showing a shortage of more than 6,000,000 tons.

Immediate action to relieve this shortage is urged, as railroad and tidewater transportation efficiency drops 25 per cent in cold weather.

STUDENTS DINE THE TEACHERS

Girls of the Sixth Grade Serve a Delicious Dinner at the Pittsburgh Street Building on Wednesday Evening Under Direction of Miss Myers.

Special to The Courier.
SCOTTDALE, Oct. 19.—The enrollment of the Scottsdale public schools this week reached 1,100, the largest in the history of the school according to a report from Superintendent J. Alden Marsh. Tuition receipts are also greater than at any time before.

Entertain Teachers.
Girl students of the Sixth grade prepared and served a delicious dinner for their teachers in the sewing room of the Pittsburgh street building on Wednesday evening and a very pleasant social affair resulted. Nineteen of the girls had the dinner in charge, under the direction of Miss Mary Myers, domestic science teacher. The teachers attending were Misses Louise Kerr, Maud Loucks, Jessie Dunger, Edna and Alice Rhodes, Lucy Brown, Miss Ruth Warner, Ruth Eber, Helen Stanley, Lorna Atwood and Emma Gibson. The teachers' table was served by Florence Waugaman and Cleora Richter. The students' table was in charge of Pauline Harris, Irene O'Rourke, Reba Tissue and Zennie Zomorra. Several readings were given by Miss Elsie Mae Proutis and there were solos by Miss Lorna Atwood and songs by all.

W. C. T. U. Meets.
Mrs. W. W. Elcher entertained the ladies of the W. C. T. U. from Greensburg, Md. Pleasant, Scottsdale and other towns in this district at the county executive meeting yesterday.

Harvest Home.
An enjoyable Harvest Home service was held in the Episcopal church last evening in charge of Rev. N. A. Shyrtel, Rev. J. M. Barker and M. S. Kumpaga of St. Peter's church at Uniontown. There was special music and autumn decorations. Afterward baskets were made up from the vegetables and fruit used in the decorating and sent to needy persons. The remainder went to the Mount Pleasant hospital.

At the Theatres

THE ORPHEUM

Never in the history of the theatre has there been so widespread a demand for return engagements of a play as there is for David Warfield's magnificent spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," which will be shown Monday and Tuesday at the Orpheum. During the past season in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, St. Louis and in all of the large cities of the country the past records for long runs have been eclipsed and new records established that are almost unbelievable. Over six million people have enjoyed its wonders. Never before have so many people flocked to see an entertainment. Twice every day the theatre has been filled wherever it has been presented. Where return engagements have been played the attendance has been larger than during the earlier engagements. It is of extremely rare occurrence that anyone is satisfied with one seeing of this wonderful production. It is safe to say that three million people have seen it at least two times.

THE PARAMOUNT

"MOTHER O' MINE"—A five part illustrated picture, telling a strong story of a young man whose personal ambition made him forget his mother, is being presented today. Rupert Julian appears in a good advantage in the leading role. He is supported by an excellent cast which includes Mrs. Ruth Lafayette, Elsie Jan Wilson, Ruby Clifford and W. E. Warren. The story is one of the best of both smiles and tears. It is developed in a quiet manner and rounds up with a pleasing climax. The story concerns an elderly woman who comes to the city to see her son, unexpectedly, and arrives in the midst of a social affair. The son really loves his mother and is delighted to see her, but her plain old fashioned appearance makes him just a little ashamed of her, as he moves in high society and is engaged to a girl "bred in the purple." Mrs. Lafayette gives a splendid interpretation of the sweet old lady, being exactly herself to all appearances and gets a firm hold on the sympathies. Her appearance at the reception has been carefully led up to, many scenes having been shown at the old country home where she was reared a long period of years for the return of her son. Saturday Bojio Bennett and Rex Stewart will appear in "Bond of Fear." Monday and Tuesday Harold Lockwood will be featured in "Under Handicap," a Metro feature.

ORPHEUM THEATRE

"THE LITTLE AMERICAN"—As an attraction extraordinary, the new Mary Pickford picture, "The Little American," is conceded to be the greatest patriotic message ever seen on the motion picture screen. Popularly known as "America's Sweetheart," Miss Pickford presents a particularly fitting characterization in the title role of this new American picture. Striking views of remarkably spectacular war scenes, both on land and sea, are pictured in the most modern manner of photoplay technique. As Angela Moore, the little American girl who braves the dangers of the war zone, our Mary appears in what is really thought to be the greatest dramatic effort of her career. "The Candy Kid" a two reel Billy West comedy, will also be shown. Coming soon Douglas Fairbanks in his latest Atlantic production, "The Man From Painted Post."
